"One touch of Nature makes the whole world kin"

THERE is only one universal language, only one tongue which speaks in accents that are understood by all the race of mankind. This is the language of nature—the "holy, sweet name of humanity!"

The poet tells us that in her varying moods nature speaks to changing accents—the way of the water walks through the naked woods is varied in a different way from the way of the sun walks across the sky. When the sun strikes through the leaves of a tree or draws across the walls of a field the sky that we see is never quite the same. This is one touch of nature that makes the whole world kin.
